Format

- Each club will play 34 games, including 17 home games and 17 away games.
- Teams will face each of their conference opponents (10 in the East, 11 in the West) twice during the season (1 home, 1 away).
- Western Conference teams will play one additional intra-conference game; Eastern Conference teams will play two.
- All teams will face each non-conference opponent once.

Opening Weekend: March 3 & 4

- Saturday: Toronto faces Eastern Conference Championship opponent Columbus Crew SC (1 p.m. ET | TSN) along with upstart Houston Dynamo challenging Atlanta United (3:30 p.m. ET | Univision).
- Sunday's slate includes:
  - Seattle hosting LAFC (5 p.m. ET | ESPN)
  - An FS1 double-header of Sporting Kansas City-New York City FC (7:30 p.m. ET) and then LA Galaxy-Portland Timbers (10 p.m. ET)
  - Vancouver Whitecaps FC hosting their cross-Canadian rivals, the Montreal Impact (6 p.m. ET | TSN, TVAS).

MLS Cup Rematch

- If you're amped for a taste of Toronto-Seattle after two straight tightly contested MLS Cup finals, the regular-season rematch comes May 9 at BMO Field (7:30 p.m. ET | FS1, TSN).

Stadium Openers

- The first of two new MLS stadiums to open in 2018 will be LAFC's Banc of California Stadium. The expansion club will play its first home game against the Seattle Sounders on April 29, a nationally-televised contest on FS1, starting at 9 p.m. ET.
- D.C. United will follow suit when they open Audi Field against the Vancouver Whitecaps on July 14 (7:30 pm ET; MLS LIVE).

World Cup 2018 Break

- The summer brings a nine-day World Cup break (June 14-22), as more than two dozen MLS players represent their squads in Russia.

- In the final weeks of the tournament, five MLS games air on FOX after World Cup matches. Atlanta-Seattle will follow the World Cup final on July 15 (2 p.m. ET).

All-Star in the ATL

- Atlanta's Mercedes-Benz Stadium hosts the 2018 MLS All-Star Game presented by Target (ESPN, UniMás, TSN, TVAS) on August 1.
- The opponent will be announced in the near future.

Ready for Heineken Rivalry Week?

- From August 22-26, you'll get national broadcasts of ...
